Part1 Overview of the College

Yangzhou Polytechnic College, founded in 1984, is located in the beautiful city Yangzhou, which was awarded United Nation Habitat Award in 2006. The college, as a full-time comprehensive vocational college, is one of the first-class vocational-technical colleges that passed the intellectual training level assessment organized by Chinese Education Department. In the Academic Evaluation Report of Chinese Higher Educational Schools and Disciplines 2015, the college ranked 17th among all the 1322 vocational-technical colleges in China, and 4th in Jiangsu Province.

The college has 863 teachers including 613 with master's or doctor's degree. The number of professors and associate professors are 70 and 408 respectively. The college also has 4 nationwide-prominent teachers, 22 provincial and municipal young experts, 2 provincial exemplary teaching teams and 2 provincial high-tech creative research teams.

The college has 22 teaching faculties, 21 official departments and 5 education-aid units consisting of 356 basic and academic labs in which the total expense of the teaching facilities is 188 million. There are about 1.49 million books and 1.4 million e-reading materials in the library as well as more than 2000 journals and magazines. The majors in the college are 71 within 17 categories such as mechanical engineering, automobile, textile, business management, economics, medicine, telecommunication, IT.

The college is active in cooperation and communication with universities, colleges and social organizations overseas, setting up 7 international cooperative programs with American, Canadian and South Korean universities and colleges. It has also established exchange relationship with colleges in over ten countries and regions.

Part 2 Guide to Yangzhou

Located in the middle of Jiangsu province, the north shore of the lower reaches of the Yangtze River and the south end of the Yangtze-Huai Rivers plain, Yangzhou is the most vibrant and an important city in the economic circle of the Yangtze River delta. It boasts land coverage of 6,638 square kilometers and a population of 4.6 million, including the downtown area of 1,100 square kilometers with a population of 1.31 million.

Yangzhou is a cultural city with a long history and thriving culture. It is one of the first 24 historic and cultural cities released by the State Council with a founding history of about 2,500 years. There were three golden times in the history of Yangzhou. Many famous man of letters left many poems chanting the beauty of Yangzhou." Such famous well-known sayings as "In this flowery March journeyed south to Yangzhou", "The green city is Yangzhou", "The gentle spring breeze swept down a ten-mile-long road of Yangzhou", "Only Yangzhou is suitable for people to live in" give true and vivid expression to Yangzhou featuring gorgeous image, beautiful ecology, serene environment, delicacy and elegance. In 2006, it was awarded the United Nations Habitat Award, the highest prize in the area of global habitat.

Yangzhou abounds in natural resources, cultural resources and intangible cultural heritages and is one of the first excellent tourism cities in China. There are numerous historic sites and cultural relics, including 500 plus historic architectural complexes, 500 plus traditional lanes, 168 historic sites of various levels. Slender West Lake and Yangzhou historic quarter have been listed in the Preparatory Directory for World Cultural Heritages of China.

Yangzhou is an enlightened, open and economically prosperous industrial and commercial city. In history, Master Jianzhen went eastward to Japan to spread China's culture including Buddhism, medical sciences, architecture and art. The Korean Choe Chi-won, the Arabian Pu Hading and the Italian Marco Polo all left their footprints here. Now Yangzhou has established sister relations or carried out friendly exchanges with over 30 cities across the world and maintained economic and trade and cultural interactions with over 160 countries and regions in the world. In recent years, its economic strength was notably improved on the way toward economic transformation. The three pillar industries of automobile and shipbuilding, petrochemical and electromechanical equipment continue to develop and the emerging industries represented by new energy, new light source, new material, smart power grid and electronic books develop rapidly.
